

Yesterday you decided which creatures inhabit your island. The king and queen have asked you to take a census of your island.

Your royal job is to:

1. Choose how many of each creature you want on your island. Some creatures like to live in large groups and some like to live in smaller tribes. Try to mix it up!
2. Determine the total population of your island. Are there ways to categorize your creatures? What can you tell us about the population of the mystical animals you've created?

Remember the king and queen are COUNTING on you to COUNT for them!

