

The logging truck is backing into the loading zone, ready for another day's work. The loggers have moved deeper into the forest, and the road to get there has narrowed to one treacherous lane. Only one truck is equipped to take on this challenge. This special truck holds eight logs. See a teacher to find out how many logs are in your wood pile today. How many trips will this truck need to take to transport all of the logs?